Raps Prep. School League

It is all monsense to suggest plans for the season of 1911 had so far matured early in January that any inconvenience worth mentioning would be suffered by any of the Associations composing the League by admitting another Association at the time the application of Benedictine College was acted upon I take it, that the 1911 baseball schedule had not then been made up, and I doubt if "Secretary and Treasurer" can name a single plan amounting to a hill of beans that amounting to a hill of beans that would have had to be changed by any would have had to be changed by any of the Associations in the League if the application of Benedictine College had been approved.

The whole thing boiled right down to brass tacks is simply this A majority of the Associations in the Prep School League did not want Benedictine College to compete this season for pennant honors and I leave it to a fair-minded and disinterested it to a fair-minded and disinterested but to draw its own conclusions.
